SPRING

Foreword by Mark Van Hamme

Commitment and Connection

Recently, I was invited to visit our Indian colleagues on the occasion of their 20th anniversary. There was a celebration, with singing and dancing performances by the employees, joyous and colorful. What struck me most, though, was the commitment and sense of connection I witnessed during the event. I like to believe it is a testament to the strong fit between our Indian colleagues and the Zaventem crew. Unwavering commitment and connection are at the heart of our company.

As a business, we started the year fairly well. Despite the prevailing and growing uncertainty in the business context, we've managed to hold our ground. This is largely thanks to the kind of customers we work with and the long-term partnerships we have always nurtured. As a result, our team continues to grow, and we've welcomed quite a few new colleagues. Interestingly, the challenges faced by other companies seem to have made it somewhat easier for us to attract the right people. Speaking of our people: we also said a warm and healthy goodbye to two formidable colleagues who retired.

I'm glad to report that Montova has found a renewed sense of energy. In this newsletter, you'll find a presentation from the strategy meeting, which outlines recent successes and future plans. Here too, the team is expanding, and we're pleased to welcome Stijn back into the fold.

On a more personal note: when my mother passed away recently, I went through a rough patch, as you might expect. During that time, I received a great deal of sympathy and warmth from everyone at Brainsquare, and I want to sincerely thank you for that. It's reassuring to know that we're here for one another—not only professionally, but personally as well—when times are tough.

Now read on... in this newsletter you'll also find short articles about a customer visit to MPET, farewell notes for our retired colleagues, the New Year party, our marketing white paper, and our successful presence at student fairs.

Yours committed,

Mark Van Hamme

New Years Party 2025

Montova – new perspective and strategy

On January 14th, we held our Montova Strategy Meeting at the NH Brussels Airport.

Colleagues Michel, Sander, Tejasweeni, Niels and Geert outlined the most important achievements 2024 and challenges 2025 for their departments. It was a successful and eye-opening presentation that helped us understand and appreciate each other's work even more.

As a second part, the new Montova organization was presented, making us ready for the short- and longer-term future.

Even though the temperature of the meeting room and the dessert was on the fairly cool side, we all went home with a warm feeling.

You can access the presentation of the Montova Strategy Meeting via this link, and we invite everyone to have a look.

Brainsquare Group connects with future talent at KU Leuven Job Fair

On Tuesday, April 23rd, colleagues from Brainsquare and Montova took part in the KU Leuven job fair, organized in collaboration with the student association Industria vzw. The event brought together many enthusiastic students, eager to explore their career options. It also gave us the perfect opportunity to present ourselves as a forward-thinking employer.

This edition of the fair took place at the Brabantthal in Leuven, a spacious venue that welcomed dozens of companies and hundreds of students throughout the day. The energy was high from start to finish, with a constant flow of curious visitors stopping by our booth to learn more about what we do and how they might fit into our world.

This job fair also marked the first outing of our brand-new booth backdrop, specially designed for campus and recruitment events. Its fresh, modern look helped us stand out and sparked many conversations, proving that strong visual presentation matters.

Our team returned inspired by the passion and curiosity shared by the students. Engaging with future talent like this plays an important role in our broader goals: strengthening our employer brand, building relationships with academic communities, and attracting the next generation of professionals.

Take a look at the photos from the event below!

Next up: we'll be attending another job fair on Thursday, May 8th. We're already looking forward to another inspiring evening of connection.

Montova visits MPET: Bridging Tech and Operations in the Port of Antwerp

On Thursday, March 20th, a delegation of Montova colleagues visited MPET at the Port of Antwerp. It proved an impressive opportunity to witness the sheer scale and complexity of MPET's activities up close.

Throughout the day, we talked about past and upcoming changes, mutual expectations, and opportunities for closer collaboration between our teams.

For Montova, the visit gave us valuable insights into MPET's daily operations and challenges. It also helped identify areas where we, as partners, could even better support MPET.

Personally, the visit helped me put my work into context. It made it much clearer how the solutions we build affect day-to-day operations on the ground. Seeing everything in action let me connect the technical side of my role with the practical realities faced by MPET and gave me a renewed sense of motivation and purpose for the work we do.

Our first White Paper – Learn more about Enterprise Application Integration!

We are excited to share that our team has developed Brainsquare's first white paper, "Integrating Your Enterprise Applications with Brainsquare and IBM App Connect Enterprise." It is now available for download and reading on the intranet.

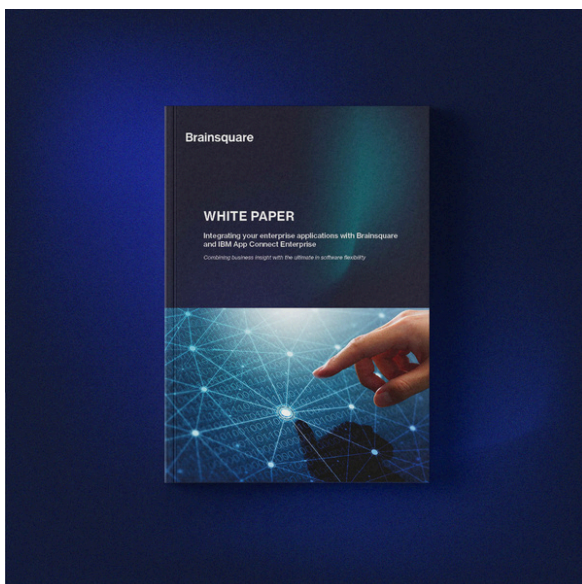

A white paper is an in-depth report that provides expert insights on a specific topic. It serves as a valuable resource for expanding our knowledge, staying informed about industry best practices, and supporting decision-making processes.

This white paper is the result of our teams' collective efforts to explore Enterprise Application Integration (EAI) and its role in optimizing internal processes. In today's fast-paced digital landscape, businesses rely on multiple software applications to manage operations. Ensuring a seamless integration between these systems is essential for efficiency and long-term success.

We provide an overview of IBM App Connect Enterprise and how it enables smooth system integration, along with the role of Brainsquare in developing customized integration solutions. We also share real-world use cases of our successful integrations that have improved efficiency and automation, as well as best practices for streamlining business processes and preparing for future scalability. Additionally, we highlight key challenges such as managing legacy systems, ensuring data security, and achieving real-time data synchronization across platforms and how companies can overcome them.

We believe that staying informed about integration strategies will help us work more effectively, foster better collaboration across teams, and continue driving innovation within our organization. By sharing this knowledge, we can collectively enhance productivity, improve compliance, and build more resilient digital workflows that support our long-term goals.

The full white paper is now available on our intranet in the Blogs section. We encourage everyone to take a moment to read it and stay up to date with our latest developments in enterprise integration for businesses.

Retirement Tony Bijl

Wishing Tony a well-earned retirement

Recently, our colleague Tony set sail for his retirement. At Tony's farewell dinner, Steven helped lift the anchor with the following words:

Dear Tony,

The moment has finally arrived — no more alarm clocks dragging you out of bed. That is, unless you decide to get your boat on the water even earlier yourself!

After all those years of EDIdesk projects and helping automate processes for clients and ports, you're now charting your own course.

We'll truly miss your helpfulness and enthusiasm, within and beyond the team.

One of your final achievements was starting the walking club together with Ingrid, a great initiative!

Maybe one day we'll hear the sound of your guitar drifting across the water, as you enjoy your well-earned and richly deserved rest.

And who knows, perhaps one of your sailing adventures will take you all the way to your beloved Italy!

We wish you endless days of sunshine, sea breezes, with the wind always in your sails. But above all, no more deadlines.

Enjoy your retirement, Captain!

Arrivederci

Retirement Marc Van Auseloos

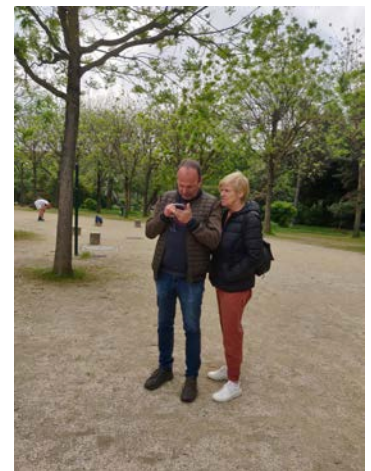

Marc, enjoy your retirement!

After years filled with meetings, emails, and mysterious Excel formulas, the time has finally come: Marc Van Auseloos can officially close his laptop, for good.

During his time with us, Marc built a career out of tackling problems both big and small that he either effortlessly solved or cleverly avoided. It is now time for new challenges: relaxing, traveling, and perhaps even a masterclass in “doing nothing.”

Not only the EAI Team, but the entire Brainsquare team bids him farewell—with admiration and gratitude. Cheers to a fantastic colleague and his dry, double-edged sense of humor.

Marc, enjoy your retirement—you've earned it!
